Greetings From RVCC!

From Executive Director Stu Mills:

Partnering in Community

Try as you might, you can't always create community. Sometimes it just has to come to you.

Sure, we can dream and strategize and poll and brainstorm to identify programs and facilities that may appeal to our membership or fill a void in the community we serve, but sometimes serendipity just drops them in our lap.

Two recent developments at The Rock illustrate the point.

For many years, our Board and members have dreamt of the day when we could create a small café or lounge at RVCC. It takes a lot of resources to undertake a project like that (Sara and I can speak from some experience in that regard), and mainly for that reason, there we were this past winter -13 years later - still dreaming. Then Sara heard through the grapevine that Trager Brothers Coffee was busting at the seams in Lovington and might be looking for a place to put a new roastery on this side of the County. Hmm...we happened to have a newly-empty room next to a newly-renovated lounge with newly-upgraded wifi. A phone call, a couple of visits, a little horse-trading, some Yoder magic and voila! - an internet café is coming soon to a community center near you.

Read more about the TBC saga inside, and be sure to come by for a latte when they open this fall.

A similar melding of needs and resources just happened a couple of weeks ago. One of the first questions I asked when I arrived on the scene here last year was, "What's up with the ball field?" It was a hayfield with some chain-link fence poking up in the middle of it, the echoes of spirited ball games almost imperceptible, and the hope for its resurrection dimming as each summer faded into memory. Then a call comes in - it seems there are not enough slots on the high-school ball team for all the under-18s who want to play, and a traveling team is forming. There's a ton of support, but no place to practice. Hmm...

The Baseball Team Nelson 18U is now practicing here on Monday and Wednesday nights. See how you can help on page 3, then come witness the birth of a team - and the rebirth of a ball field - and cheer them on.

RVCC - Where Community Happens. And every now and then, with some good karma, this is how it happens.

As always, thanks for all that you do.

Friday, Sept 13: Coffee House Music Series—Carl Anderson

The Coffee House Music Series returns with the acclaimed and nationally-recognized songwriter Carl Anderson.

Although still relatively young, Carl has been writing and recording music for years and his songs speak of emotion unknown to the average twentysomething. Carl played for years with his group Pine Radio and recorded and toured extensively with various other artists in Charlottesville and beyond. His song "Heavy" was recorded by Nashville singer Andrew Combs. Carl has become a staple at Virginia festivals, logging two appearances each at Campout East and The Festy Experience plus Bristol Rhythm and Roots Reunion, Misty Mountain Music Fest and Crozet Music Festival. 2012 was a year of touring for Carl, sharing stages with Cracker, Southern Culture on the Skids, Sons of Bill, and Jonny Corndawg. He was selected as a finalist for Telluride Bluegrass Festival's Telluride Troubadour songwriting contest and recently recorded a Daytrotter session. The list of awards and acclamations Carl has earned exceed the space available here.

"Carl Anderson, I'm listening. I'm listening to the almost folk/country Far Away From Here, which might well be just another country tune in anyone else's hands but turns introspective in yours. I'm listening to Don't Stop Trying, its chorus a cry for both strength and mercy. I'm listening to the rockin' Good, Good Man which somehow rocks but doesn't. How do you do that, make a song less and more at the same time much like Tom Petty does on some of his better songs? But mostly I am listening to Hold Me, a song which strikes a chord so deep in me that I almost bleed." ~Frank Gutch Jr, No Depression.

Coffee = Community!

Ben Jensen shows his support at the hearing.

2013 has been the year of unexpected challenges, but sometimes those challenges yield some pretty amazing results. Many of you know that one of our community members filed a complaint in response to the news that Trager Brothers Coffee will soon be joining our Community Center. The Department of Planning and Zoning ruled in our favor. When that same community member appealed the ruling, we had to face a public hearing before the Nelson County Board of Zoning Appeals. The BZA voted to support the ruling, thereby freeing Trager Brothers and RVCC to create a coffee roastery, coffee shop, and internet café here at the Community Center. We are ecstatic, relieved, grateful, exhausted...and more than a little choked up over the outpouring of support that this challenge generated.

Most of us who have built a life in Nelson County have spent much of that life chasing down the very slippery concept of community..and then, once we've caught it, we spend yet more time trying to anchor it somewhere close to home. Very often, our choices are few. We might search for it within an established class, group, or church, or we might try to build community in our own way.

For those of us who have taken on the job of building that sense of community, there is nothing—nothing—more rewarding than seeing overwhelming support for one of our projects, from the very people we're trying to serve, right when we need it most. When we called for support, while we were sure that TBC would be well received (we know how passionate folks are about their coffee), we honestly didn't know how many people would actually stand up to support the idea.

In less than a week, we received over 500 signatures on the petition we circulated, in addition to the letters of support, in-person feedback, the strong showing at the hearing itself, and the passion with which this news circulated. The Board of Zoning Appeals made it clear at the hearing that the ruling was strictly on the letter of the law and not on public opinion. And yet we feel like we came home with two verdicts, two victories. The first victory lives in the letter of the law, and the second lives in the soul of the law. To know that we're doing something that our community wants this much is a powerful victory for the soul.

To all those who stood with us, we thank you. Coffee may equal community, but this buzz is far more heady and exhilarating than any we've had from caffeine.

ROCK TALK

We're working on a better way to connect with our members, and for our members to connect with us. We've just launched "Rock Talk," a website forum designed to be a place for RVCC members to share info relevant to the Rockfish Valley community, share ideas about what you'd like to see happen at our community center, and offer feedback. If you have an idea for a discussion topic, please contact us and we'll post it!

"The art is mostly from efforts made during the last decade and is original in its scope. I am not a traditional painter rendering my subject matter into a recognizable canvas. Rather, I take what is within my sight and play with it to bring it towards a new level of seeing the subject anew but keeping it within the boundaries of recognition. "--John J. Trippel

The Baseball Team Nelson 18U

The view from home plate.

Our baseball field is finally being used! In mid-August, the Baseball Team Nelson 18U came to us in need of a place to practice and play. RVCC happily partnered with this team to restore our ball field, and it's been truly amazing how much this group of parents and volunteers have accomplished in a few short weeks. The crew has skimmed and leveled the infield, built a pitcher's mound, installed bases, and fired up the malfunctioning lights on the west side of the field.

The Baseball Team Nelson 18U is a newly organized travel baseball team in Nelson County for 15 to 18 year old boys. The team is registered with the USSSA. The goal is to build this amazing foundation of time, labor, and equipment into a comprehensive program for travel baseball in the county, so players have the opportunity to continue to build their skills after "little league," or after the Dixie Youth program which cuts off at 12 years old.

There is much to be done to restore the ball field to its former glory, and to get this new team up and playing. For the team and program to be successful, there is equipment to purchase--from items such as rakes and tamps, to replacing 13 lights at the RVCC field, to equipment as large as a batting cage. The Baseball Team needs help to raise the money to purchase the equipment, and RVCC will gladly recognize any funds donated for these items as tax-deductible donations.

For more information about the team, or to help with the cause, please contact Cindy Thompson at 434-465-3499. To make your donation, drop by RVCC or visit the Baseball Team page on our website.
